

TIPS FOR REFERRING STUDENTS: A GUIDE TO LEARNING STRATEGY SUPPORT

The Centre for Learning Strategy Support (CLSS) offers programs and services to help students sharpen their study skills and achieve their learning goals.

Here's a list of common concerns and where to direct students who express them.

If a student wants to...	Refer them to:
Set practical short- or long-term goals and navigate available services, resources and programs.	uoft.me/PeerMentors
Talk about setbacks or complexity in learning—and develop an in-depth plan.	uoft.me/LearningStrategists (might be a longer wait time than to talk to a peer mentor)
Discover and review effective study strategies at their own pace.	uoft.me/StudyStrategies (solutions to common needs) uoft.me/ResourceLibrary (PDF handouts) uoft.me/5Keys (non-credit, self-paced online course)
Jumpstart motivation by studying, reading or working on assignments in two-hour blocks with fellow students.	uoft.me/StudyHubs
Get writing done in quiet, supportive company.	uoft.me/GradWritingGroups (grad students only)
Work on anything at all alongside fellow grad students.	uoft.me/GradProductivity (grad students only)
